This remedy is now before the world, and is known only by the name given it, by her who was dying yet living, and lived on account of it.

What Ada's Physicians

Say.

Being the family physician of Ada's father's family, and attending her during her sickness. I had an opportunity of witnessing the beneficial effects of the La-cu-pi-a upon her. Since then I have used it with great success in my practice. It purifies the blood, equalizes the circulation, and corrects the functions of the stomach and liver as well as of the kidneys, lungs, and heart. It has a gentle stimulating effect upon the system, and enables it to throw off all the motiorine matter in the blood and secretions, and assist nature in restoring a patient laboring under any imagin able form and character of disease. In fact, I am almost convinced that it will soon be the leading medicine used by the medical profession, if not the only one.
